

Message from the President Roger L. Crumley, MD

Upholding, Nurturing, and Strengthening the Noble Legacy

During our society's centennial celebration in 1997, President Stanley Blaugrund reminded us of our great history with the motto "Upholding the Noble Legacy." I pondered these four words as I prepared for my Presidential year. I re-read The Presidents Book compiled by Roger Boles and Patrick Doyle. I urge you to do the same. Reading about our rich and colorful history instilled in me a humble, yet deep understanding of this truly Noble Legacy. But simply upholding the legacy isn't enough. We must Nurture and Strengthen it, as well.

How will we do that? Looking for bright new members and leaders is one thing. Many of us in my generation got to our current career positions without contributing enough to membership recruitment. I am certain we have all identified prospective new members during past Section and Annual meetings, but frequently failed to follow up.

Our society needs, deserves, and requires more of each member's time than simple attendance at meetings. We must actively pursue new members year round.

At the Association of Academic Departments (AADO) meeting during

Patrick Doyle, MD Recovering

Past President and Emeritus Fellow Patrick Doyle suffered a stroke April 7, 2002, from which he is recovering. Dr. Roger Boles reports that Dr. Doyle is in good spirits and working hard at his rehab program. Dr. Doyle would be pleased to receive mail and good wishes from his friends in the Society at his home address: 4555 Magnolia St., Vancouver, BC V5J 4B6 Canada.

Roger L. Crumley, MD, Assumes Presidency

Roger L. Crumley, MD

Roger L. Crumley, MD, of Irvine, Calif., will preside over the 106th Annual Meeting of the Triological Society, May 4–6, 2003, at the Opryland Hotel in Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Crumley, 61, is Professor and Chairman of the Department of Otolaryngology at the University of California – Irvine. In 1982, he received the Society's Mosher Award, and was Vice President of the Western Section in 2001. In addition, Dr. Crumley has served as a Reviewer for the Laryngoscope for more than 20 years. He joined the journal's Editorial Board in 1991.

He received his MD from the University of Iowa School of Medicine in 1967. After completing a residency in General Surgery at Highland Alameda County Hospital in Oakland, Calif., he served in the U.S. Navy as a Marine Corps Battalion Surgeon in Vietnam. He completed a residency in otolaryngology at the University of Iowa Department of Otolaryngology-Maxillo Facial Surgery in 1975.

Dr. Crumley is a past president of the American Academy of Facial Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery and has been listed among The Best Doctors in America many times.

He is also a jazz pianist and flugelhorn player, as well as a jazz vocalist and arranger. He and his wife, Janet, have two children, Danielle and Erin.

Society Funds Four Research Projects

The Triological Society has awarded Research Training Grants totaling $100,000 for four research projects. The funded proposals were submitted by Timothy Hullar, MD, of Baltimore, Md.; Michael Underbrink, MD, of Galveston, Texas; Boyd Gillespie, MD, of Charleston, S.C.; and the team of Drs. Cecilia Canto and Elizabeth Keithley, LaJolla, Calif. Each project will receive $25,000.

Dr. Hullar is Chief Resident at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, Department of Otolaryngology – Head and Neck Surgery. His project is entitled, "Information Transfer by Vestibular Nerve Afferents."

Dr. Underbrink is a Resident in the Department of Otolaryngology at the University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston. He will study the "Effect of Human Herpes Virus-8 on Human Papillomavirus Transformed Cell Lines."

"Swallowing Outcomes After Head and Neck Cancer Treatment," is the title of the research project proposed by Dr. Gillespie. He is Assistant Professor in the Department of Otolaryngology – Head and Neck Surgery at the Medical University of South Carolina, Charleston.

Drs. Canto and Keithley will investigate, "Opportunistic Infections Involving

Thank You to Officers and Council

The Society wishes to recognize Dr. Mansfield Smith for his service to the Society as President in 1999 as he concludes his term on the Council. In addition, Drs. Ellen Friedman and William Potsic have completed their 3-year-terms as at-large members. The Council members' contributions were recognized by the membership at the annual business meeting and by the Council at their annual dinner.

Robert A. Jahrsdoerfer Is President-Elect

Robert A.
Jahrsdoerfer, MD

Dr. Robert Jahrsdoerfer, 72, has been elected to serve as the 107th President of the Triological Society for 2003–2004. Dr. Jahrsdoerfer is a Professor of Otolaryngology and Neurotology in the Department of Otolaryngology at the University of Virginia Medical Center. He was elected to the Society and won its Mosher Award in 1978. He was Vice President of the Southern Section in 1993.

Dr. Jahrsdoerfer received his MD from the University of Virginia School of Medicine in 1961. He took a residency in surgery at the Stamford Hospital in Stamford, Conn., and a residency in otolaryngology at the Yale-New Haven Hospital, New Haven, Conn.

He has been repeatedly selected as one of “The Best Medical Specialists in the United States,” as well as one of the Best Doctors in America. He is a past president of the American Neurotology Society, American Otological Society, and the Virginia Society of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology.

Cannon, Har-El, Manning Elected to Council

The Triological Society elected three new at-large Council members at the 105th Annual Meeting in Boca Raton. Joining the Council for the 2002–2005 term are C. Ron Cannon, MD, Jackson, Miss.; Gady Har-El, MD, Brooklyn, N.Y.; and Scott C. Manning, MD, Seattle, Wash. Three new members were elected this year because Phillip Daspit, MD, an at-large Council member, will now serve on the Council as Vice President Elect of the Western Section.

C. Ron Cannon, MD

Dr. Cannon, 52, is in private practice. He received his MD from the University of Mississippi School of Medicine, where he also took residencies in surgery and otolaryngology. He was also Chief Resident in the Department of Otolaryngology – Head & Neck Surgery at the University of Virginia Medical Center. He is a past president of the Mississippi-Louisiana Ophthalmological and Otological Society and very active with the American Cancer Society in Mississippi. He was elected to the Triological Society in 1993.

Dr. Har-El was elected to the Society in 1997. He received his MD at Ben Gurion University School of Medicine in Israel and studied Otolaryngology at Beilinson Medical Center and SUNY-Health Sciences Center at Brooklyn, N.Y. He is currently Associate Professor and Vice Chairman in the Department of Otolaryngology and Associate Professor of Neurosurgery in the College of Medicine at SUNY-Health Sciences Center. He is a member of the American Rhinologic Society, the American Academy of Facial Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery, and the North American Skull Base Society, among others. Dr. Har-El is 48 years old.

Gady Har-El, MD

Scott C. Manning, MD

Dr. Manning, also 48, is a Professor in the Department of Otolaryngology at the University of Washington, Children’s Hospital and Medical Center. He received his MD from Tulane Medical School and studied Otolaryngology at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas and Children’s Hospital in Pittsburgh, PA. He is a member of the Society of University Otolaryngologists, Society for Ear, Nose and Throat Advances in Children, and the American Society of Pediatric Otolaryngology. He was elected to the Triological Society in 1997.

the Vestibular-Auditory Pathways in AIDS.” Dr. Canto is a Post-Doctoral Fellow and Dr. Keithley an Adjunct Professor in the Department of Head and Neck Surgery, Division of Otolaryngology at the University of California, San Diego.

In an effort to strengthen research support in all areas of otolaryngology, The Triological Society has joined with the AAO-HNSF and several otolaryngological societies to broaden research opportunities and streamline and enhance the research application and review process. The Centralized Otolaryngology Research Effort (CORE) serves as a central clearinghouse and facilitator for otolaryngology-head and neck surgery research programs. Guidelines and applications for 2003 Research Training Grants are available through the Triological Society website at www.triological.org and at the AAO-HNSF website at www.entnet.org. A letter of intent and summary of the work is due by Dec. 15, 2002; applications are due by Jan. 15, 2003.

Drs. Hudson, Blaugrund Honored at Meeting

Drs. William R. Hudson and Stanley M. Blaugrund became Emeritus Fellows of the Triological Society during the 105th Annual Meeting in Boca Raton and given a medallion in recognition of their distinguished service to the Society.

Dr. Hudson was President of the Society in 1996 and Historian from 1998 to 2000 when he “retired” from the position. Dr. Blaugrund served on the Council for six years, serving as Treasurer from 1995 to 1997, and President of the Society in 1998.

President Gerald Healy presented the medallions during the Council’s recognition dinner.

The triangular medallion replicates the logo used by the Society since its Centennial in 1997. In preparation for the Centennial, the Society’s logo was redesigned, but retained as an element the Society’s original seal. At its base, it says, “The Triological Society: Upholding the Noble Legacy.”

Poster Award Winners

The winners of the poster competition at the 105th Annual Meeting were:

First Place (Poster 61):

Jonathan M. Levine, MD, Philadelphia, PA

2002 Annual Meeting Highlights

The 105th annual meeting was held on May 12–14 at the Boca Raton Resort and Club. Gerald B. Healy of Harvard University presided over the meeting. Dr. Healy's Guest of Honor was Stanley Shapshay, MD of Boston Medical College, the current Vice President of the Eastern Section. Dr. Shapshay also served the Society as the Eastern Section Secretary/Treasurer. Presidential Citations were bestowed upon Robert Cantrell, MD of Charlottesville, VA who served as Southern Section Vice President in 1991; Stuart Strong, MD of Homosassa, FL, President of the Society in 1991; Dominick Sampogna, MD of Bay Shore, NY, and The Honorable Robert Terry, Chief Judge of the Probate/Family Court in Barnstable, MA.

The Presidential Speaker, former Society Executive Secretary and Coordinator of CME, Michael Johns, MD, opened the Sunday sessions with his presentation on "The Opportunity to Lead in the Reform of Medical Education." David Nathan, MD, President Emeritus of the Dana Farber Cancer Institute, delivered the Ogura Lecture entitled "Preserving the Airway of the Young Clinical Researcher." Three award winners presented their thesis material to the attendees: Dr. Wendell Yarbrough, the Mosher Award Winner, presented "The ARF-p16 Gene Locus in Carcinogenesis and Therapy of Head and Neck Squamous Cell Carcinoma"; Dr. Richard Kopke, the Fowler Award Winner, presented "Enhancing Intrinsic Cochlear Stress Defenses to Reduce Noise-Induced Hearing Loss"; and Dr. Christopher Linstrom, Honorable Mention Award winner, gave his presentation on "Objective Facial Motion Analysis in Patients with Facial Nerve Dysfunction." Thirty-six oral presentations were given; chosen from nearly 160 abstracts submitted. Two panel presentations were very well received. Maintenance of Certification – Subspecialty Certification and Fellowship Accreditation, was presented during the joint session with ASPO. Dr. Margaret Kenna moderated a panel on Cochlear Implants in Children.

The reception for residents was combined with the TRIO/ASPO poster session which featured more than 70 posters selected by the two societies. An estimated 400 attendees had the opportunity to view the posters and talk with the authors.

Fifteen new Active Fellows were inducted into the Society on Sunday morning.

Attendance at the Triological Society meeting was the highest it has been since the 1997 Centennial. COSM registration overall was at its lowest number since COSM was held in Hawaii in 1991. Several changes were implemented with the COSM registration process this year including a substantial decrease in the number of categories designated for registration and allowing residents to register for all meetings for one fee. 2002 was the first year that banquet sales were eliminated from the main registration process and handled by the individual societies.

Mark your calendars for the 106th Annual Meeting to be held on May 4–6, 2003. Attendees will be traveling to Nashville's Opryland Hotel, a place to experience the charm and elegance of the South. The hotel offers nine acres of indoor gardens, winding pathways, sparkling waterfalls, and more than 30 specialty shops and a variety of restaurants.

COSM this year, I was surprised to see how many young people now chair the nation's academic departments. I was astonished to learn that many of these younger chairs are not Triological Society members. I researched this, and found that frequently they simply had not been asked to join. I compiled a list of non-member chairs, made some calls, and now feel quite confident that a reasonably large number of them will be proposed at next Winter's Section meetings. I hope to tell you in Nashville that over 90% of this group is in the process of becoming Triological Society members.

But academic chairs are only one small group. We need to actively pursue two other groups, private practice ("community based") otolaryngologists and junior academic otolaryngologists.

At the conclusion of our Council meeting in Boca Raton, I asked that each Council member give me the names of one or two prospective members. I'm happy to report that several of these individuals will be sponsored at the upcoming Section meetings. Furthermore, I have asked Jesus Medina to chair a membership enhancement task force. Dr. Medina's committee will report to the Council in February with further ideas on continual rejuvenation of our organization by the induction of bright young men and women. Of particular importance are the community-based (private practice) specialists. We must propose them, mentor them with their thesis development, and bring them into our Society.

With respect to the junior faculty group in academic programs, I am fond of what I call the "Gluckman Doctrine." Dr. Gluckman tells his faculty, "If you're good enough to be on this faculty, then you're good enough to be in the Triological Society," and virtually all his faculty are proposed for membership. For those of us in academia, this is the gold standard. I hope that all of our residency chairmen will adopt this doctrine. Frank Lucente has also demonstrated commitment by personally calling a number of people, resulting in several candidates who will be proposed at the upcoming Section meetings.

What would I like you to do? Identify at least one outstanding otolaryngologist as a prospective member. Contact them and tell them that you wish to propose them.

The candidate guidelines and application forms are included with this issue and are also available at www.triological.org.

Now is the time to act, because the deadline for the new candidates' materials is October 1. I hope (and expect) to meet record numbers of candidates during my travels to the Section meetings in January, and I need each of you propose your candidate if we are to meet that goal. If you have thoughts or questions, feel free to contact me, Jesus Medina, Chair of Membership Enhancement, or our administrative office.

Society Offers Residents Research, Travel Awards

Abstracts and papers submitted and presented by residents at the Section Meetings may be recognized through two types of awards:

- Resident Research Award Competition — named honorary monetary awards awarded to residents submitting outstanding manuscripts chosen for presentation at the Section Meetings. Residents must submit abstract by August 1st and must apply for awards through submission of manuscripts to the Section Vice President by September 6th.
- Resident Travel Awards — travel funds, based on abstracts, awarded to training programs for residents chosen to present papers at Section Meetings. These awards are based on the abstracts submitted by August 1st. No application materials necessary.

RESIDENT RESEARCH AWARD COMPETITION

Award recipients are chosen by the Section Vice Presidents and Committees, based on the quality of the manuscripts received. These named awards are given in recognition of outstanding scholarship and high scientific rigor and have been named to honor notable teachers, surgeons and researchers in the field of otolaryngology-head and neck surgery. Residents chosen for these honors receive a monetary award, complimentary Section meeting registration and two banquet tickets. In addition, the award winners' training programs receive: (1) Section Travel Award to help offset expenses incurred by the awardees to present papers at the Section Meetings, and (2) COSM Travel Award to help offset expenses incurred by the awardees to attend the Society's annual meeting at COSM.

RESIDENT TRAVEL AWARDS

Award recipients are chosen by the Section Vice Presidents and Committees, based on the quality of abstracts submitted through the routine submission process (August 1st deadline). These awards are administered by the Society administrative office and are paid to selected residency training programs to help offset travel expenses incurred by residents presenting papers at the Section Meetings.

Detailed information has been mailed to the program chairmen and is also available on the Society's website.
